

Last Mile Broadband

Much of what we are all familiar with is the 'last mile' broadband. Network to homes and businesses that provide the nation (and world) with communication tools end-to-end. Much of what the Broadband Stimulus package addresses is the need for last mile broadband access. But this is just one of three main components to enabling complete broadband access. Without robust, affordable middle mile and backhaul facilities, the potential of last mile broadband networks will remain unfulfilled, and any last mile investment may be lost.
